		Kim Wilkins
2005	winner	Geoffrey Maloney
		Sophie Masson
2006	winner	Grant Stone	A person who has done almost everything, Grant Stone is an archivist, bibliographer, collector, librarian, organiser, publicist, publisher, reviewer and critic, fan and professional. He is a botanist by training, a librarian by profession, a collector by inclination and a new-renaissance person because he can't help himself. It might be said that Grant Stone is one of the not-so-quiet achievers of Australian science fiction. In Western Australia, Grant Stone is almost unavoidable. Every week he broadcasts the Faster Than Light Radio Show which has been going to air regularly on RTR-FM since the 1970s. To listen to the FTL Show is to be exposed to Grant's deep and passionate interest in science fiction and everything related to it. From around the world Grant brings together the news of the latest happenings, the new books, comics and movies, spices them with his wry observations and enlivens them with his quirky humour. If they could bottle it they could make a fortune. (Most people around Australia can now sample Grant's radio style, if not his knowledge of sf, some time during the week on local ABC radio stations. He has become a popular and regular feature, demonstrating his encyclopaedic knowledge of almost everything.)
		Bill Congreve	As a reviewer, independent publisher and bookseller, Bill Congreve has been supporting Australian speculative fiction for more than a decade. He has a reputation for consistently publishing excellent material, for writing thoughtful and useful criticism, and for being personally responsible for many people leaving science fiction conventions with more books than they can carry. MirrorDanse Books, which Bill founded more than ten years ago, has been responsible for some of the most polished, professional and high quality small press publications in this country, including collections by Lucy Sussex, Terry Dowling, Rob Hood and Chris Lawson. More recently, along with Michelle Marquardt, Bill launched the 'Best of Australian SF & Fantasy' series, which has increased the profile of Australian spec fic short story writers both in this country and internationally. Bill has also worked for Infinitas bookshop and is well respected for his reviews and commentary in Aurealis magazine and elsewhere.
2007	winner	Terry Dowling	Rynemonn , Coeur de Lion
2008	winner	Jack Dann
2009	winner	Justin Ackroyd	Proprietor, Slow Glass Books

aurealis awards, previous years' results

2010	winner	Helen Merrick	Helen Merrick's commitment to Australian speculative fiction over the past several years is clear in her participation in ceonventions throughout Australia and overseas; in her role as a judge for various Australian speculative fiction awards; is demonstrated in the books she has edited and contributed to, that analyse fandom and feminism in speculative fiction; and showcased by her generosity of time in programming and supporting local conventions. For many years, Helen has been one of those tireless workers behind the scenes, colunteering time and energy to the Australian spec fic scene. She has serves as a judge on the Aurealis awards, the James Tiptree Jr award, and the Peter McNamara lifetime achievement award. As an academic, fandom historian and non-fiction writer, Helen has worked to promote Australian science fiction and our feminism history, as well as working on a larger international scale. She was responsible for one of the streams at the 2010 Worldcon in Melbourne and now podcasts about social media, science fiction and digital culture. Her recent book was a major achievement, earning a Hugo nomination. Helen is also a winner of the William Atheling Jr Award.
2011	winner	Galactic Suburbia podcast – Alisa Krasnostein, Alex Pierce, Tansy Rayner Roberts, Andrew Finch (producer)	Galactic Suburbia has founded a new arena for SF criticism and review in Australia, as well as bringing a new international audience to Australian writing, not only promoting works by Australian authors but also highlighting feminist issues within the global speculative fiction scene and thereby encouraging vital debate and discussion among community members.
2012	winner	Kate Eltham	Kate Eltham has been an active and dynamic supporter and promoter of all aspects of genre writing and community in Australia through her work at the Queensland Writer's Centre, Clarion South and now the Festival Director of the Brisbane Writers' Festival. She has helped Australian authors and editors gain knowledge, skills and recognition both here and overseas. In addition, Kate has regularly travelled around Australia helping those both active and new to the writing and publishing scene gain a better understanding of the present and future status, trends and needs of the publishing arena. Kate is a remarkable ambassador for all things writing within Australia.
2013	winner	Jonathan Strahan	Jonathan Strahan is internationally acclaimed as a master anthologist, yet his roots are in Australian small press. In 1990, he co-founded Eidolon: The Journal of Australian Science Fiction and Fantasy, which he worked on until 1999. Since 1997, Jonathan has worked for Locus: the Newspaper of the Science Fiction Field as an assistant editor and reviewer, becoming Reviews Editor in 2002. A three-time Hugo nominee, Jonathan won the World Fantasy Award (Special – Professional) in 2010 for his work as an editor, and has been nominated several times for the Hugo Award for Best Editor Short Form and Best Fancast.
2014	winner	David Ashton, Petra Elliott, Ben McKenzie, John Richards and Lee Zachariah for Night Terrace (audio series)
2015	winner	Letters to Tiptree edited by Alexandra Pierce & Alisa Krasnostein (Twelfth Planet Press)	Letters to Tiptree is a significant Australian production for 2015. This book, which celebrates the contribution of Alice Sheldon/James Tiptree Jr to the science fiction field, presents 40 letters from major names in the field today, as well as academic essays about the importance of Sheldon/Tiptree and original letters to and from Sheldon, Ursula Le Guin and Joanna Russ. This is an important contribution not only to thinking about Sheldon/Tiptree but to the history of science fiction, the place of women in it, and how those who have gone before us can have a significant impact. It also explores the importance of discussing issues of feminism, and how vital it is to see others like us (women, queer, questioning) around us, succeeding in our field. This book is the most significant action undertaken to celebrate the centenary of Sheldon's birth; very little else has occurred in her honour.
2016	winner	The Rebirth of Rapunzel: A Mythic Biography of the Maiden in the Tower by Kate Forsyth (FableCroft Publishing)	Showcasing an astonishing level of research in a highly readable and engaging form, The Rebirth of Rapunzel delves into the mythology of the Rapunzel fairy tale and examines the historical and storytelling background to the piece. Packaged with several related articles and other pieces, the book is both a factual exploration of a fictional creation and a beautiful reading experience in and of itself. Non-fiction collection
2017	winner	The Fictional Mother by Tansy Rayner Roberts (self-published)	A collection of non-fiction essays combining personal memoir with pop culture and science fictional themes.
